GERMANY YIELDED TO HUMANITY'S DEMANDS

Submarine: Will Sink No More Merchant Ships That Do Not Resist, Is New Policy of Germany

RUSSIANS STILL RETREATING

Berlin and Vienna Claim that Fortress of Lutsk Near Galician Boundary Has Fallen

German submarines will sink no more passenger ships without warning and with the safety of the non-combatants on board being provided for if the steamships do not try to escape or offer resistance.

Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, has notified Secretary Lansing. Commenting on this, Mr. Lansing declared that the notification appeared to be "recognition of the fundamental principles for which we have contended."

Of old Washington is gratified with the German announcement, as it is considered the ending of the crisis existing between the United States and Germany through the sinking by German submarines of American vessels and belligerent vessels on which American lives were lost.

Continued progress for the Germans and Austrians along the eastern battle line are recorded by Berlin and Vienna. Lutsk, a Russian fortress in southern Volhynia, a short distance from the Russian Galician boundary, has been captured by the Austrians, the Russians having been driven to the outer line of forts to the west of Grodno, and the strenuous resistance of the Russians in Galicia which had held up the forward movement of the Austro-Germans has been broken and the town of Zborow captured according to the Berlin and Vienna official statements.

Jens J. Jacobsen, one of the most prominent and popular residents of Luna county, died suddenly Tuesday afternoon at his ranch home twenty miles northwest of Deming.

Mr. Jacobsen had been transacting business in Deming Monday and until noon of Tuesday, leaving for his home at 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon. On reaching home he remarked that he felt tired and would lay down to rest for a little while. About 2 o'clock in the afternoon his daughter found him lying upon his bed dead, he having passed into that dreamless sleep from which there is no waking, calmly and peacefully without pain or struggle. The news of his death was immediately telephoned to Dr. R. C. Hoffman, E. H. Bickford and Dr. Hoffman went to the ranch and brought the family and body to Deming.

The burial took place yesterday in the Masonic cemetery, Ruth Chapter, No. 6, of which Mr. and Mrs. Jacobsen are members, recited at the city residence on Pine street the beautiful burial service of the Order of the Eastern Star. At the cemetery the body was deposited in the grave with the full Masonic honors by Deming Lodge, A. F. and A. M. At an early age he left his native land and lived for a time in Australia, moving then to Alaska, where he was engaged in business until 1895, when, with the Majors brothers, he came to New Mexico and settled on the farm near this city where he died. He developed a very attractive farm and home where he has lived continuously for twenty-three years. When he first located here he engaged in the growing of canebrake plant for making of tannin extract, but this not proving profitable, he changed shortly to farming and stock raising. For some time past he has been engaged with Mr. Bickford in the business management of the Rio Mimbres Irrigation Company.

Mr. Jacobsen is survived by an aged mother and a brother in Denmark, and by his widow and two daughters here. He was the kind of man that made friends of all who knew him, and the news of his death will give sorrow to the homes of Deming. HONDALE FARMING DISTRICT IS PROSPEROUS AND ENTERPRISING

Canning Association Will Employ Twenty-Five to Thirty Workers in Putting up 250,000 Cans of Fruit and Vegetables in Live Town

A tour of the Hondale district was made and it showed that the farmers of that vicinity are up-to-date and enterprising. Some of them have specialized in cantaloupes with great success, and their tomato crop is very heavy. The Mimbres Valley Growers and Canning Association of Hondale opened their canning factory Tuesday. They plan to put out about 250,000 cans this season, the farmers of the community furnish the tomatoes for this supply. The factory will employ from 25 to 30 hands, and they intend to have a day and night shift.

For the purpose of distributing oil the Hondale Oil Buyer's Association was organized, this organization enables the farmers of that vicinity to get oil as cheap as those near Deming, thus saving them the long haul. This has been an unusual year, yet the association has proven a splendid investment.

The Hondale farmers have been invited to meet the farmers of the Capitol Dome community, for the purpose of organizing a Farmers' Social Club. The meeting to be in the Capitol Dome school house, Saturday, September 18, at 6 p. m.

Hondale has a progressive community not only along the farming lines, as shown by the above, but also along other lines including educational work; the number of students having left for their respective schools, speaks well for this enterprising community.

An iron rod, a half-inch in thickness and blunt on the end, which supported the running board, was driven through both legs above the knees.
